

This workshop focuses on the hallmarks of effective teaching in higher education. It is appropriate for those wishing to hone the craft of university teaching and those wanting a research-informed foundation before undertaking peer mentoring. This is a six-week, fully online offering facilitated by Drs. Kristi Dickey and Gina Morris. It is structured so that you can complete the majority of work on your own schedule; however, you should expect to devote 4-6 hours per week on readings, discussions, and application tasks.
