3. INCLUSIVE TEACHING WORKSHOP SERIES

In this workshop series facilitated by Drs. Kristi Dickey and Gina Morris, you will investigate the development of learning environments that are accessible and equitable for all. Upon successful completion, you will be able to:

- Define and apply an inclusive teaching mindset.
- Consider implicit bias and its potential effect on the learning environment.
- Assess teaching structures shown to support student learning.
- Apply inclusive teaching practices and Universal Design for Learning.
- Cultivate learning environments that are accessible and equitable for all students.

This series is appropriate for instructors wanting to deeply consider issues of diversity, equity, and inclusion. It is a semester-long offering; however, much of the work can be done at times convenient to your schedule.

5. OSU FACULTY READS BOOK STUDY

*UNgrading: Why Rating Students Undermines Learning (and What to Do Instead)

Edited by Susan D. Blum

If you have ever found yourself wishing that students would focus more on learning and less on grades, this is the book for you. Another title from the Teaching and Learning in Higher Education series, UNgrading blends current research with practical strategies and provides insight from those who have reimagined traditional grading structures.

OSU FACULTY READS: DIVERSITY, EQUITY, & INCLUSION EDITION

*The Tulsa Race Massacre and an American City's Search for Justice

Scott Ellsworth

In 1921, Tulsa's "Black Wall Street" was leveled in less than 24 hours. Yet equally shocking were the decades of secrecy surrounding the event. The Ground Breaking shares the history of the Tulsa Race Massacre and reveals the ways in which qualitative research helps us discover the truth.

This is a continuation of the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion series started in Fall 2020, and all are welcome to join us! Upon registration you will receive access to our group's Canvas community and resources.

8. ONLINE AND HYBRID TEACHING RESOURCES

Teaching online or HyFlex, when thoughtfully planned, can be very engaging and effective across subjects and disciplines. Whether the content is taught synchronously (live) or asynchronously (on your own time), faculty members can present information to students, demonstrate processes, facilitate large or small group discussions, assess student learning and provide feedback on assignments and assessments. ITLE has resources to assist you in your planning for a short-term shift or a semester-long course.
